Welcome to all of the new J.Kindergarten students and their families. We have almost all met at Open House, so this week will be a great time to learn more about each other, get acquainted with the classroom and playground, and find out some of the things we'll learn this year.

If parents have any ?? and it seems that there isn't the right time to get an answer, you can either: write a note and tape it to the desk, or email the teacher at the above address. We appreciate all input, and try to respond, but sometimes things get overlooked!

As you know there are 22 children in our class- 8 girls, and 14 boys. Natalie Rivas will not be joining the class until January. And Aisla Haapemaa is our class celebrity, having just moved to the United States with her family. Each and every year we have students that are new to English, and it is a challenge for them. Families at home can discuss this, and how to make friends with those we don't know very well.

Mrs. Giluso will return to class on Sept. 2 from San Diego State University where she is enrolling her son into college. In the mean time, Mrs. Synamon Reeves, a mom and our Daycare Director plus part-time substitute will be part of the team with our class.

More information will come home to you about Jr.K next week. Please fill out all the information pages in your manila envelopes and return them quickly!!

Our chapel theme for the year is " Standing on the Promises of God", all great place to begin a year together. May God bless you all and God bless our school year together.
